

BUSTLE ABOUT U-BOAT AUGURS DASH, BUT SHE STILL HUGS U. S. SHORE

Deutschland Takes on Pilot, Tug Drags River for Mines, but Voyage Back to Germany Is Delayed

WIRELESS STILL SEALED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—"The Deutschland will leave very soon," one of her officers told a German official in Washington by phone today.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 1.—Appearance along the old Patuxent today were that at least the German cargo submarine Deutschland was ready for her daring dash back to Germany.

Owen Coleman, the pilot who brought the submarine ashore, hooked a drag on take her out again. Plans of the promoters call for him to pilot her down the bay before night.

Affairs began to warm up around the Deutschland pier shortly after sunrise. The tug Timmins, moored nearby, hooked a drag on to the Efo launch and rafted the harbor.

But the only thing the drag pulled up was a dozen hard-shelled crabs and a ton of mud.

Then to make the scene really effective police and Government boats were mysteriously called into service, and they maneuvered around nervously for an hour, then disappeared as strangely as they had appeared.

Radio Inspector Cadmus said he had no request from the Deutschland to unseal her wireless—a step necessary before she can sail.

BREMEN SAILED; DIDN'T SAIL; CAUGHT; DUE—ALL IN ONE DAY

Second U-Boat Trader Now in Pancho Villa Elusive Class

BALTIMORE, Aug. 1.—While promoters of the United States-German submarine freighter line refused to be specific today as to how long the Bremen had been out, information here was that she sailed 18 days ago.

The Sun this morning asserted that it had been learned on "unimpeachable authority" that the Bremen had not yet sailed from her home port.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—The second German super-submarine merchant vessel, the Bremen, is due to reach the city on the early Thursday morning.

Physicians say that the disease is an inflammation in the front part of the spinal cord, known as the anterior horn. It is here that the motor nerves are centered, and muscular activity, which controls the movements of the body, depends on the proper functioning of these nerves.

Only some of the muscle controlling nerves are put out of commission by the disease. The rest stop work, but other muscles continue to pull, and without resistance, thus pulling the limb out of shape. It is in this which must be prevented if permanent deformity is to be avoided.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 1.—With 14 new cases of infantile paralysis reported to the State Health Department during the last 24 hours, health officers are redoubling their efforts to make sure that infected persons are quarantined as well as investigating reports of new outbreaks.

Ten of the 14 new cases are in Philadelphia. One case is in Haverford, Montgomery County, and one each in Clearfield, Luzerne and Wayne counties.

Efforts to learn from these physicians why they are reluctant to admit that adrenalin may be used with good results have been fruitless thus far. They are unable to suggest any remedy, confessing themselves baffled by the disease.

1 DEATH, 3 NEW CASES OF PARALYSIS IN VICINITY

The Floan child lives in the Fifteenth Ward. He is the third case there. Several cases other than that of the Avicola baby have been reported also from the Third Ward.

Eight children in Philadelphia are first to appear in the Thirty-third Ward. The course of their love ran smoothly until a few months ago, when, according to Mrs. Sutowalski, her husband met Mrs. Catrina Releher, a charming young widow.

One of his sons accompanied the policemen to tell them when his father came along. After a while a man appeared, carrying a beer bottle, wearing a soft felt hat and with a blonde mustache.

"That is my father," said the younger Sutowalski. "Oh, no," said the policemen. "Your father wears a derby hat and has no mustache."

INSISTENTE AZIONE DI ARTIGLIERIA CONTRO LA FRONTE ADIGE-PASUBIO

Gli Austriaci Attaccano le Posizioni Italiane sull'Adige e sul Travignolo, Ma Sono Respinti

ARSIERO BOMBARDATA ROMA, 1 Agosto. Gli austriaci hanno spiegato una insolita attivita' di artiglieria su tutta la fronte della valle dell'Adige al Monte Pasubio.

Non e' questa la prima volta che l'artiglieria austriaca si accanisce sull'ala sinistra italiana, e queste azioni violente di artiglieria su una fronte così estesa potrebbero anche far seguire negli austriaci l'intenzione di far supporto ad esse attacchi di fanteria.

Nella notte del 30 luglio, cioè tra sabato e domenica, gli austriaci attaccarono con la loro fanteria le posizioni italiane a Castione e Zugna, tra Val Lagarina e Vallarsa, resistenza italiana. A questi attacchi di fanteria seguì poi, nella giornata di ieri, lunedì, l'azione dell'artiglieria su tutta la fronte dell'ala sinistra italiana.

Ecco il testo del rapporto del generale Cadorna, pubblicato ieri ser dal Ministero della Guerra:

Nella valle dell'Adige, nella notte del 30 luglio, il nemico attaccò le nostre posizioni a Castione e Zugna, ma fu prontamente respinto. Nella giornata di ieri l'artiglieria nemica fu attivissima in tutta la regione tra la valle dell'Adige ed il Monte Pasubio.

Nella valle dell'Adige continua la nostra pressione contro il Monte Cimone. Nella giornata di ieri la nostra artiglieria nemica bombardò Arsiero arreando alcuni danni e ferendo alcune persone.

Nella valle del Travignolo il nemico, dopo aver ricevuto rinforzi, attaccò le nostre nuove posizioni di Aviole per ben tre volte, ma fu sempre respinto e indietreggiò dal nostro nitro fuoco delle artiglierie e delle mitragliatrici.

Nella valle della Drava i nostri grossi calibri hanno di nuovo bombardato coltendola parecchie volte la stazione di Sillian.

Sul resto della fronte non vi e' nulla di interessante.

REFUSAL TO WED COST HIM CHURCH, MINISTER SAYS AFTER DISMISSAL

Wouldn't Fall for Elder's Match-making, So Charges Were Made, Rev. Kellmayer Declares

CHESTER MAN EXPLAINS The Rev. Egidius Kellmayer, former pastor of Bethany Presbyterian Church in Chester, who was deposed from the Presbyterian ministry by the Presbytery of Philadelphia last night, asserted today that the charges against him had grown out of his refusal to marry a girl in his church choir.

A prominent elder in Bethany church and the elder's wife, he said, attempted "to make a match" for him. The charges of insolent conduct, unbecoming a minister and schism on which he was deposed from the pastorate and deposed from the ministry, he declares, are the outcome of this elder's dissatisfaction.

Another reason was, he said, that he had written an article against the evangelist, Billy Sunday, which was published in a newspaper. The same elder told him, he said, that "any man who did not believe in Billy Sunday was not fit to be a minister."

"The most important side of the question," said the clergyman, "did not come out at the trial. It was the motive back of the charges made against me."

"When I went to Chester about seven years ago a certain elder, whose name I'll not make public, and his wife, started taking me around with them on little outings. They always had in these parties a certain young woman, a very attractive young woman, who sang in our choir."

"But I never thought of it as anything more than friendship. I used to take her home from church. Sometimes we went on trips to New York. The elder and his wife always accompanied us, the elder usually arranging the outings. Later the young woman moved to Philadelphia. I used to call on her."

"I noticed on these occasions that she was doing a lot of sewing. I never thought much about it. One day when I was in Chester I called on another girl in the church and asked her what my friend in Philadelphia was having so much sewing done for, and asked if she was going away on a trip."

"The girl looked surprised and said: 'You can't fool me; you know.' I assured her that I did not know. Then she said the young woman was to be married, and to me. That was the first I knew about it. I arranged a meeting with the young woman in Philadelphia later, and she told me then that 'she understood' I wanted to marry her."

"When I returned to Chester I noted a difference in the treatment I received from the elder and his wife. They were waiting. They knew they could not prosecute me out in the open for a thing like that—so they waited to trump up something."

"I remember years before that this elder had teased me about 'amazing hearts' in another place I had been. 'Better not try it in Chester or I'll cook your goose,' he told me. I have reminded him since of that conversation. He got his chance when I wrote the article about Billy Sunday and when I wrote another article with nine reasons 'Why We Are Not Ready for Woman Suffrage.'"

"The elder went to a bunch of old maids in the church and got them on his side. And they got together the Billy Sunday sympathizers, and the old maids created the conditions which brought the investigation of the church articles with nine reasons to accept the verdict against the Rev. Mr. Kellmayer. With him they are holding services in a tent across the street from the church."
